CONSCRIPTION IN CANADA.

ONE of the first actions of Sir Robert Borden on returning to Canada was to announce the intention of his Government to introduce conscription on the basis of selective drafts. The Canadian Premier has a fuller and more intimate knowledge of the requirements of the war than anyone not privileged as he was to attend the meetings of the Imperial War Cabinet. He has visited the Canadian divisions at the Front; he knows the tenacity they have consistently shown both in defence and attack; and he tells the people of Canada that he has promised these men that they should not fail to receive the reinforcements they need. This pledge given to the men at the Front, whose valour has brought so much glory to the name of Canada, will be fully redeemed.

Judging from the cabled reports, the indications are that the necessity for conscription in some form is recognised by both political parties in Canada, and the country as a whole is more ready for compulsory legislation than ever before. The Government requires to raise a further force of between 50,000 and 100,000 men for service Overseas, and these will be selected from the men of military age available with the least disorganisation of the work of agriculture and munitions. The selective method to be employed has yet to be announced. No doubt there will be many difficulties to overcome, but, by profiting by the experience of the Mother Country and avoiding her mistakes, a workable and satisfactory scheme should be found.

The population of Canada contains many diverse nationalities, owing to the large influx of emigrants in recent years. The problems that the Canadian Government are called to face differ essentially from those in the Mother Country or in Australasia. The entry of the United States into the war and the acceptance by her great southern neighbour of the principle of conscription has unquestionably affected opinion in Canada, which is now more ripe calmly to face and accept the demand on her manhood which has been so well met by France and also by Great Britain.

FREE WHEAT.

IN the recent removal by Order-in-Council of the tariff restrictions on the wheat trade between Canada and the United States the agricultural interest in Western Canada secures a concession for which it has long been strenuously working. The Canadian Order, by placing wheat, wheat flour, and semolina on the list of articles admitted into Canada from the States free of duty, brings into effect the American legislation which, passed in 1910, automatically permits the free admission of these articles into the States from Canada directly their free admission into Canada from the States is permitted.

The terms of the Order-in-Council make it plain that the removal of the restrictions at the present juncture is due to war conditions. It is shown that all available shipping is needed just now for the transportation of high grade wheat and flour to Europe, and that, in consequence, the normal European demand for lower grade wheat and other grains has now fallen off. Therefore, despite the duty, much Canadian wheat is being exported to the United States, and, in order to encourage the greatest possible production in Canada, it is desired to enable the Canadian farmers to secure, for the considerable proportion of Canada's crop of last year which still remains in the Dominion, the high prices which now rule for wheat in the States.

This question of "free wheat" has for a good many years been one of the most controversial in Canadian politics. On the one hand, Western farmers, through their powerful associations, have, since 1910, been urging successive Canadian Governments to remove the restrictions, regarding it as certain that by the free admission of their wheat to the great competitive markets of the United States they would secure not only higher prices for their high grade wheat, but also a much improved and much surer market for the lower grade wheat which usually forms a considerable proportion of the Western crop. This argument has gained strength from the fact that the United States average yearly exportable surplus of wheat is gradually growing less. The farming community in Western Canada has urged that not only will free admission of its wheat to the American markets benefit the present Canadian growers, but, by rendering the farming industry in the Western Provinces more profitable, will greatly expedite the development of this great portion of Canada.

On the other hand, the proposal has met with very strong opposition, it being suggested that, although when a poor wheat crop in the United States coincided with a good crop in Western Canada, the Canadian farmer would naturally reap an advantage, yet under contrary conditions the Canadian market would be overwhelmed with American wheat, and the farmer in the Canadian West would suffer accordingly. In fact, into this controversy have entered most, if not all, of the well-known arguments for and against the policies of Protection and Free Trade, with, of course, special adaptation to the particular problem. The opposition has been the more strong, as the Western farmers' policy of "free wheat" has gone hand in hand with their often and strongly expressed demand for free trade in agricultural implements and machinery, in which they descry a lessening of their farming expenses.

As against these probable advantages to the West, it has been suggested that the policy of "free wheat" would injuriously affect the homogeneous development of the Dominion. So far this development has been based upon railways running east and west, connecting the Atlantic and Pacific coasts with the Canadian interior, and facilitating the exportation of Canadian produce through Canada's own ocean ports.

It has been strongly held by many people that diversion of the grain traffic to and through the United States would not only deprive the existing railways of much of the freight they were built to carry, but would lead naturally to railway development north and south, which would sever, from a commercial point of view, Eastern from Western Canada. It is held that such diversion of Canadian grain would be detrimental to the Canadian milling industry, would be a severe blow to the traffic through Canadian ocean ports, and, by diverting shipping to United States ports, would injuriously affect Canadian commerce generally.

Into the merits of all these points of view we do not propose to enter, our mention of them being merely for the purpose of indicating the essentially controversial nature of the question, which, as a matter of war-time expediency, has been settled to the gratification of some people and with the patriotic acquiescence of the rest.

NOTES OF THE WEEK.

Fresnoy. Before dawn on Thursday, May 3, certain Canadian battalions left their trenches in the plain at the foot of the Vimy Ridge and attacked and took Fresnoy. Some days afterwards the Germans brought up large reserves, and in a counter-attack re-took the heap of rubble which had once been Fresnoy; but they did not take it from Canadians. The battalions which took the village on May 3 were among those who had been fighting almost incessantly since April 9, when they made their historic attack on the Vimy Ridge, and it was their turn for a rest. Thus it came about that they had handed over Fresnoy to other troops before the massed counter-attack came.

The Canadian division which took this village has earned a reputation of which the Divisional Commander has cause to be justly proud, for they have never yet failed to reach and hold whatever objective was given them to take. Sir Julian Byng, the Corps Commander, in a stirring message to his Corps recently, reminded them of their exploits and congratulated himself on commanding such men.

"Truth" on Fresnoy. In last week's Observer Mr. J. L. Garvin very gracefully referred to this matter, and corrected an impression under which the Press had naturally fallen in the absence of any official communiqué. The motto he gives to Canadians—"Take and Keep"—is one which they well deserve. Another contemporary, Truth, which affects a military correspondent, came rather a bad cropper over the Fresnoy affair, and weaves an account which has very little semblance of accuracy. The Canadans, we are told, "on the 8th were holding Fresnoy and the wood close to it"; whereas in reality they had handed over their trenches to another division three days before.

This military quidnunc appears to believe that the capture of Fresnoy was a deliberate attempt on the part of the British command to make a narrow salient in this point of the German line. Had his source of information been better, he might safely have hazarded the suggestion that an advance on a wide front was held up at certain points, and the Canadians, therefore, when they took Fresnoy—their objective—found themselves in advance of the troops on their right. The writer in Truth then expresses the opinion that "it is questionable whether on this occasion zeal did not get the better of prudence," and he proceeds to tell the British Commander how he would have done it himself. It is a pity that such rubbish should be handed out under the guise of serious military comment.

Empire and Nationality. It is not too much to say that the statesmanlike speech delivered by General Smuts before the members of both Houses of Parliament will re-echo through the British Commonwealth of Nations. Rarely, if ever, has a responsible representative of an Overseas Dominion so aptly and happily outlined the ideals, not only of his own, but of the other self-governing Dominions. Canadians generally, whatever their political leanings, will welcome the utterances of the accredited spokesman of the Union of South Africa. The views he expressed coincide with those held by Sir Robert Borden, and embody a national ideal deep-rooted in the heart and mind of every Canadian who looks to the future with hopeful eyes.

General Smuts exhibited a jealous regard for the retention by the several races in our Commonwealth of Nations of their identity and autonomy. Such self-government is the birthright of the Overseas Dominions, and is symbolic of the freedom upon which is based the existence and continuance of the British Empire. General Smuts also pleaded for "a greater nationality," as distinct from a standardised ideal. Each of the Dominions must work out its own destiny. Conventionalism, real or imaginary, must never be allowed to shackle our feet in the onward march of progress. We may look to the past for guidance against errors of judgment, but it is to the future that we should look for inspiration.

The Empire Cabinet. As was to be expected, Sir Robert Borden waited until he returned to Ottawa to divulge his experiences of the Imperial War Cabinet, the most historical constitutional event of our generation. Sir Robert was able finally to put at rest the fears that had been expressed in various quarters as to the autonomy of the Dominions being in some way impaired by this new constitutional experiment, and, on the other hand, he was able to announce that hereafter the British Cabinet would not decide matters first and consult the Dominions afterwards, but in future all questions of Imperial policy would be a matter of joint deliberation by the Mother Country, the Dominions, and India. Sir Robert Borden also told the House of Commons that he had made no suggestion to the Mother Country concerning any change in its fiscal system purely for the purpose of giving preference to Canadian products. As has been intimated in previous statements, an agreement has been come to which will give inter-Imperial preference by means of improved and cheaper means of transportation—this may necessitate a substantial subsidy by the Mother Country, which will have all the effect of a trade preference.

One of the most interesting disclosures made by Sir Robert Borden of the discussions of the Imperial War Cabinet was that he, at any rate, and probably others of his colleagues, had come to the conclusion that an Imperial Parliament would be neither wise nor feasible. If the full co-ordination of the Empire can be achieved and vigorously maintained by the present constitutional machinery—and evidently Sir Robert Borden is of opinion that it can be so maintained—then the more complicated and difficult machinery suggested by the Imperialists of the Round Table school is unnecessary.

Votes for Canadian Women. The war has provided a short cut to many objectives that seemed far off. Women's suffrage is one of these. It appears to be within sight in the Mother Country. Several of the Canadian Provinces have already given effect to it; and Sir Robert Borden indicated last week that in the next Federal election Canadian women will be conceded the right of voting. The Government decline to deal with the subject in the present session; but the Prime Minister finds himself unable to withstand the "irresistible tendency" in the English-speaking countries and communities of the Empire enjoying democratic institutions, which he believes will act with increasing force until all the women of the Empire have a vote.

In Canada, as in the Mother Country, the war has enabled the women to prove of what public service they are really capable. The women war workers of the Dominion have well deserved Sir Robert Borden's tribute:—"They have shown themselves worthy to take part in the government of this country, and have thereby made clear, what I believe was clear before, their right to a voice in the government of the country in which they live."

Owing to the heavy Casualty Lists, we are forced to hold over "Cash Dealings in Canadian Securities" and several other regular features this week.

Unwise Tenderness.

In certain respects the war-machine of the Huns, and also that of our gallant French Allies, is much more efficient than the British, and this is very noticeable in our hesitation to supersede or to retire unsuitable officers. Reluctance to scrap obsolete or inefficient war material has now been quite overcome, but we are still far too tender in regard to the personnel. This applies as much to the Canadian Forces as to the Imperial. Officers, whose inability to properly handle their men in trench warfare has become apparent to their commanders, have been known to be sent back to train battalions in England or in Canada. War is a stern business, and it leaves no place for unwise tenderness.

Drafts sent out to the fighting line must be as fully trained as it is possible for men to be without having actually experienced the enemy's fire. It is obvious that the best results can only be obtained by providing as instructors those officers who have outstandingly proved their ability to command their men in defence or to lead them in attack. All men who receive commissions do not make first-class combatant officers, and this fact must be fairly faced, irrespective of personal likes or individual predilections, and the stern elimination of the unsuitable or inefficient is a duty we owe to our fighting men at the Front and those now in training to fill up gaps, which may be large and numerous before our job is done. There are other posts in which an officer unsuitable by character or temperament for battalion instruction can still do useful work as a cog in the war-machine, but only proved fighting men should be selected to train fighting men.

CANADA LODGE.

At the meeting of the Canada Lodge, which took place at Freemasons' Hall on Tuesday, the Brethren voted by ballot for the W.M. for the ensuing year, and Lieut. E. H. Cooper was unanimously elected. This marked an important event in the history of Canada Lodge, as, owing to its recent foundation, this was the first occasion on which it was possible for a member initiated in the Lodge to have successively passed through all the offices and be duly elected W.M., which is the case with the W.M. elect.

In the absence of the W.M., Lieut. W. MacLeod Moore, his seat was occupied by W.B. Fred Grundy, P.G.S., who was ably assisted in the work of the Lodge by other P.M.s. During the progress of the Fourth Degree interesting speeches were made by the W.M. elect, by Col. Gunn, Lieut.-Col. G. McLaren Brown, and Lieut.-Col. Clement H. Gurney, I.P.M., who was warmly congratulated by the Lodge on having recently won the D.S.O. (His portrait appears on page 235.)

The next meeting of the Lodge (Installation) will be held on Tuesday, June 26. Any communications should be addressed to the Honorary Secretary, Mr. A. E. Carlyle, 55, Fetter Lane, E.C.4.

On Sunday last the Overseas Club gave a musical afternoon for wounded Canadian soldiers, which proved a great success.

The privileges of the National Liberal Club, Victoria Street, can be secured by any officer of the Canadian or American Expeditionary Forces upon introduction by a member.

In order to celebrate masonically the entry of the U.S. into the war on the side of the Allies, the British Lodge invited the officers of America Lodge to their last meeting at Freemasons' Hall, London, on which occasion several fraternal speeches were made by American masons now in England which were warmly reciprocated by their hosts.

Pte. Maurice Trevor Myles, who died from wounds at a hospital in France on April 20, 1917, was the youngest son of Major E. H. Myles, R.A.M.C. He was born in India, and educated at Bedford Grammar School and Elizabeth College, Guernsey. He had a ranche on Salt Spring Island, B.C., and enlisted in the 88th Victoria Fusiliers, but in France was transferred to the Pioneers. His elder brother, Lieut. (temp. Capt.) P. H. Myles, Indian Army, was killed in action in Mesopotamia in 1916. (Portrait, page 214.)

CANADIAN AIRMAN'S ADVENTURE.

A Canadian pilot in the R.N.A.S. attacked a single-seater "Albatross" scout at 8,000 feet above the German lines. He disposed of him after a short engagement and was then attacked by seven others, who drove him down to 3,000 feet and shot his machine to pieces. He plunged to the ground and crashed amid the wreck of his machine a couple of hundred yards behind the Canadian lines, breaking a leg and dislocating a shoulder. A furious bombardment from German heavy artillery was in progress at the time, and he crawled for shelter into a shell hole, where he remained from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. Fire then having slackened, a party from the trenches who had witnessed him fall from a height of 3,000 feet went in search of his body with a view to burying it, and found him conscious and cheerful, though very thirsty.

FOODLESS FOR FIVE DAYS AND NIGHTS.

To be concealed behind the German lines and remain foodless for five days and nights was the recent experience of Lieut. G. V. Laughton, Northumberland Fusiliers. Mr. Laughton was out on night patrol with a sergeant, and eventually found himself behind the German front line and unable to get back to his own unit. The sergeant was killed by a shell, and the officer had perforce to remain hidden for five days and nights without food.

At the end of that period the British captured the enemy position, and Lieut. Laughton was found unconscious as a result of his privations. The features of his case have aroused great interest in medical circles. Mr. Laughton has been granted extended furlough to Canada.

A Canadian Daily Record cablegram announces the resignation of Sir Richard McBride as Agent-General for British Columbia in London.

There is a great increase in recruiting throughout the Dominion as a result of the early coming of conscription, says the Times.

The colours of the Canadian Buffs were deposited in the Warriors' Chapel, Canterbury Cathedral, on Thursday (Empire Day).

Mr. Donald Macmaster, M.P., at the suggestion of Col. Richard Reid, Agent-General for Ontario, was instrumental in obtaining the exemption from the theatre tax of wounded soldiers having complimentary tickets.

At Lewes on Tuesday Stanko Layovich, a private in the Canadian Forces, who said he was of Serbian nationality, and had three wound stripes on his uniform, was remanded for eight days on a charge of attempting to murder Private Wild, a comrade, by shooting him with a revolver.

WITH THE CANADIANS. III.

FROM "CANADA'S" SPECIAL REPRESENTATIVE

A Visit to Vimy Ridge.

AFTER seeing the Somme battlefields, the complete and utter desolation of wide areas by shell-fire is realised, but the Vimy Ridge to-day is a more complete and awful example of the effect of high explosives than can probably be seen on any other portion of the tortured soil of France.

The photographs which have appeared in Canada, taken by the official photographer of the Canadian War Records Office, show how slight and apparently insignificant the Vimy Ridge appears when viewed from a distance of a few hundred yards, but for many long months this little rise in the ground, converted into a fortress by the able and painstaking foe, has been a sombre and perpetual menace to all the troops, first French and then British, who lived and worked like moles in the lower ground commanded by the observation posts of the Hun.

It was this enemy, whose eye to position and careful and deliberate military plotting for the Great Adventure selected the Vimy Ridge and other points of natural advantage, and mapped and measured them long before the war. When, therefore, the tide of battle turned, at the time when the Hun was just within sight of the gates of Paris, and the retreat began, he had all his selected positions ready on which to take his stand, and there were few points that he had selected which became more formidable obstacles to the Allies than the Vimy Ridge. The French made great attacks on this sector of the line, and this trenched and tunnelled area below the Ridge contains the bones of thousands of the gallant men of France, and even to-day French arms and accoutrements can be seen rusting on this ground which they so gallantly fought over, and, in fact, captured and held half-way up the Ridge.

LOOKING OVER THE CREST OF VIMY RIDGE UPON VIMY VILLAGE, WHICH WAS CAPTURED BY THE CANADIANS.

"I heard from many who were describing to me the events of this great assault, that apart from the natural elation of the men in capturing the Ridge, their greatest joy and satisfaction was the view they won from its crest."

Effect of Artillery Fire.

I was fortunate, when visiting this battle ground a short time ago, in being taken over it by a Colonel of one of the battalions of the division which occupied the extreme left of the advance, and on whose front the highest part of the Ridge is situated. As I made my way from Divisional Headquarters through the valley leading up to the Ridge to find my friend, it was easy to understand how entirely dominated the whole of our position was by the enemy who held the higher ground. The necessity for the most complete and careful preparation for any offensive which was to have a fair chance of success, was apparent, and the forethought by which not only platoon commanders, but N.C.O.s and men, were thoroughly instructed and familiarised with the labyrinth of defences which they were to storm, was certainly one of the factors in a brilliantly successful operation.

Many reports, official and otherwise, have already appeared, describing the great battle of Vimy Ridge, so it is unnecessary now to again give the details of the battle, but readers will remember that they all bear testimony to the wonderful effect of our artillery fire, which was reported to have blotted out the German front line trenches. This is no mere figure of speech because even the Colonel who accompanied me, and who had a most intimate knowledge of the ground over which, they advanced, found it difficult to trace for me exactly where the front trenches had been. The whole surface, not only of the Ridge itself, but of the ground beyond for many hundreds of yards, was churned up and powdered by the mass of heavy shells rained upon it. Going over the ground just three weeks after the first day of the attack, it was still easy to realise how entirely pulverised the ground had been, and what an indescribable morass the whole area must have been during those days of inexpressibly bad weather.

The outstanding fact in connection with this so gallant feat of arms leaving quite out of question the opposition of the enemy lies principally in the physical endurance of the troops in dragging themselves, encumbered as they were with their full kit and accoutrements, over such a boggy and treacherous terrain. The shell-craters contained feet of liquid mud, the sides were as loose and friable as a newly dug sand-pit, and many men and pack animals were engulfed in these awful mud traps. Had not the work of our artillery been so completely devastating, it is obvious that no assaulting force could have surmounted such obstacles and have reached the summit: but the Canadians did make their way over this seemingly impossible ground, and, while doing so, stormed the few remaining strong points and captured thousands of the enemy.

I heard from many who were describing to me the events of this great assault, that, apart from the natural elation of the men in capturing the Ridge, their greatest joy and satisfaction was the view they won from its crest, and, although the weather was very bad and the view greatly curtailed, they could see a great, green plain studded with little villages surrounded by trees, and, at intervals of clearer weather they could see in the distance the great chimneys and industrial works of Lens, and an apparently continuous chain of buildings for miles on the far horizon.

A Memorable Achievement.

We know from captured documents that the enemy were fully apprised of our intention and our preparations for a great attack; and that they knew approximately the date of the attack, therefore the achievement of the attacking troops was all the more memorable and praiseworthy. It may be that, although they were prepared for the attack, the weather was so exceptionally bad that at the last moment they were taken somewhat by surprise. This may account for the number of prisoners taken not being larger, as we have reason to believe that comparatively few of the enemy facing us managed to escape. On the other hand, I heard a suggestion—which, after seeing the ground, I can well believe that the destruction of the artillery was so complete that a large number of the defenders still lie buried under the ruins of their own deep dug-outs and trenches.

It is quite certain that the Hun had no intention of retiring from this important pivot on his front, as my guide showed me where new railway tracks were in process of construction, and I saw large dumps of engineering stores and supplies which would most certainly have been sent back had the foe had the least cause to fear a successful attack, or any intention of withdrawing his line.

The amount of booty taken, in addition to the guns of various calibres which have already been officially enumerated, must have been very considerable. Salvage operations have been steadily going on for weeks, and yet, on the day of my visit there were large piles of every kind of material stacked up for removal, and still further quantities scattered in every shell-hole. Those who entered the deep dug-outs in the villages behind the Ridge in the early hours of the advance reported vast stores of food and drinks, which shows that, at any rate in the front line, the trenches are still plentifully supplied, not only with necessaries, but also luxuries. Examining various portions of the German equipment, there was no indication that they are in any difficulties either for rubber, metals, or fabrics; everything I examined was of excellent quality, admirably designed, and suited for hard wear and efficiency.

Our front line at the time of my visit was down in the plain some miles below the crest of the Ridge, and on our way there we climbed through many trenches or passed through extensive wire entanglements which had been built by the industrious Hun, but none showed any signs of recent construction. Some of the old German communication trenches which we had to traverse on our way to the front line were extremely narrow and inconvenient and compared altogether unfavourably with our own, and I could well imagine the difficulties of negotiating them in muddy weather.

Of course, the Boche has the range of every important spot in his lost territory marked down to a yard, and we saw some pretty shelling that afternoon at a railway culvert, which I was told he had been endeavouring to destroy for some days. The little ruined village of Givenchy, just at the foot of his side of the Ridge was another target for his guns, and a great many rounds were wasted on this heap of bricks and mortar during the few hours I spent in the plain, but what his object was in this waste of ammunition it was impossible to guess.

After seeing the stronghold which the enemy had made of the Vimy Ridge, by which he had been enabled to withstand many great assaults until the time came when an opposition was organised which he could not withstand, we have good warrant for feeling confident as to the result of future offensives, which cannot possibly be directed against more perfectly prepared lines, and which will be carried out by infantry and guns which from the lessons of past experience are becoming ever more effective.

WITH CANADIANS IN CAPTIVITY.—IV.

By "Greenjacket."

A Dominion Officer's Experiences of German Prison Life.

IN the summer of 1916 Burg bei Magdeburg was a very different camp from what it had been in the early days of the war. The camp had been enlarged twice by the building of long wooden huts. These huts were divided up into small rooms, each room holding four officers. The rooms were well furnished, and being able to buy all the coal we wished, we were able to do our own cooking, and mess in our rooms. There was an orderly to every eight officers a more generous scale than in any other camp I had seen. So for the first time since entering Germany I was both clean and comfortable, and left in comparative peace. The enlarged camp held some 700 officers, including 50 British.

THE PRISON CAMP AT BURG, AFTER THE SECOND ENLARGEMENT AND BEFORE THE THIRD.

In June they started to take us for walks twice a week along the canal banks or through the forests. This was a grand opportunity for collecting insects and butterflies, and several interesting collections were started in the camp. The relief to be outside the barbed wire for two or three hours was immense. Some men, except to go to prison, had not been outside the camp palings for nearly two years. On one of these walks, while talking to the German officer in charge of us, I learnt that he had been wounded at Ypres while observing the effect of the asphyxiating gas on the Canadians and Algerians. In a burst of confidence he told me that but for that solitary occasion the gas had been a great disappointment to their General Staff, and that the working of it had often caused the death of their own men.

The Influence of Ypres.

I noticed often that while talking to the guards at the different camps, on mentioning that I was a Canadian they would become very reserved, and would point me out to their "Kamerads" while I was walking round the camp. I found out afterwards that Ypres had made a great impression on them, and that they had been told that we never took prisoners and always killed the wounded.

Kite-flying was a great amusement in the camp, and many and various were the designs. I had a large box kite, blue above and red beneath. The white clouds in between gave it something the appearance of the French flag to the commandant's prejudiced eyes, and I was ordered to haul it down and change the colouring. During the July offensive on the Russian Front, the Russians flew a monster kite in the form of a Russian eagle on a yellow background, and underneath it, in letters two feet high, the number of prisoners taken to date.

Towards the end of July I left for Constance to be exchanged, and, being solemnly told that I should be in Switzerland in two days' time, with a light heart gave away my food, books and games, and started off with little else but a few clothes for the frontier.

Before leaving Burg I was told to look out for a fellow-Canadian who had been considered quite a character in another camp, and was sure to be on the exchange list. As our train pulled into Constance at about 9 p.m. I noticed another trainload of wounded two platforms away. A head appeared at one of the windows, and shouted across to us: "Hey, any Canadians over there?" At a venture I replied: "Put your head in, Cooper, the police are after you." It was a lucky shot. I never saw a head disappear so quickly in my life, and when we met it was a long time before I would tell him how I had recognised the voice.

Civility to Exchanged Prisoners.

At Constance the orders are, apparently, that all prisoners about to be exchanged are to be treated with the utmost civility, and it is curious, after being man-handled through every State in Germany, spat on by the women, kicked by the men, called by every vile epithet known to the German tongue, suddenly to find these barbarians on their best behaviour: to be treated to real meat at one's meals, to be taken to and from the station in a motor lorry, and to be allowed to travel in second, and sometimes even first, class carriages.

Born in 1870, he served in the 6th Royal Warwickshire Regiment, and took part in the South African War, being A.D.C. to the Brigadier-General, Mounted Infantry Brigade. He was present at the actions at Vet River, Zand River, Johannesburg, Pretoria, Diamond Hill, and Belfast, was mentioned twice in despatches, and awarded the Queen's medal with six clasps and the D.S.O. ——The Board of Valuation and Revision reported that the realty assessment rolls of the city for the year 1917 had been completed. It was found that the rateable assessment for the current year as confirmed amounted to a total of $253,667,790, of which $162,863,260 was on land at a full valuation and $90,804,530 on buildings on a two-thirds basis. The exemptions this year amounted to a total of $37,069,800, exclusive of property owned by the city, but outside present charter limits, which represents an additional valuation of $2,165,800. The population of the city taken in connection with outside assessment work up to the close of the year 1916 was found to be 182,848. The school population in the seven wards was 30,308.

— On April 13 James Russell, born here 67 years ago, died. He was the "oldest native," and saw the beginnings of the present city. He was proprietor of the Russell Hotel.

SASKATCHEWAN.

REGINA.—The recent Provincial census shows that the population of Saskatchewan is now 715,000, compared with 492,432 in January, 1911. Regina's population is now 40,000, against 30,213 in 1911; Saskatoon 21,000, against 12,000; Prince Albert 8,500, against 6,254; Weyburn and Swift Current each have 4,000.

ALBERTA PROVINCE.

EDMONTON.—Over 4,648,600 tons of coal were mined in Alberta during last year, and several small mines have been opened in the Peace River district. The output of coal for 1916 exceeded that of 1915 by 1,213,713 tons.

CALGARY.—Mr. William C. Jamieson, who came here to farm from Scotland 26 years ago, is dead.

——Before the 1917 crop is ripe the Alberta Farmers' Co-operative Company will have erected 40 new elevators, of which the sites of 36 have already been chosen. The cost is placed roughly at $350,000 and the capacity will be from 35,000 to 65,000 bushels.

Estimated at an average capacity of 40,000 bushels, the new elevators will give an additional 1,600,000 bushels of available storage for the 1917 crop.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

VICTORIA.—The Provincial Government proposes to create a Provincial Department of Labour, under a separate Minister, and has introduced a Bill into the Legislature towards that end.

——Allegations of serious irregularities in connection with the Soldiers' votes on the Provincial prohibition referendum are to be investigated by a Commission which is to be sent to England for that purpose by the Provincial Government (says a Canadian Daily Record cablegram).

VANCOUVER.—Industries are busy, and business conditions are showing improvement. The building of wooden vessels promises to create considerable activity, and the mining and lumbering industries have expanded during recent months.

PRINCE RUPERT.—The G.T.P ss. Prince Rupert has been floated and has gone to Victoria under her own steam to dry dock for repairs.

BANFF.—The motor road from here to Lake Louise is now within 6 miles of the Lake, and it is expected that it will be finished by the Fall. Motorists will then be able to reach almost all of the finest scenic districts in Rocky Mountains Park. A good carriage road already leads from Lake Louise to Moraine Lake in the Valley of the Ten Peaks, passing Paradise Valley on the way. Six miles of the transmontane motor road also are completed into British Columbia through the beautiful Vermilion country.

INVESTMENT NOTES.

The Ames-Holden-McCready Co. was very hard hit by the business depression of 1913-14, and though it later obtained war contracts, it is said that no great amount of profit accrued from these, and it was not until the beginning of 1916 that any great improvement occurred in the company's affairs. The company's year closes on April 30, and when last year's report was issued it was stated, in deprecation of the disappointment which was felt at the figures, that it reflected but little of the real improvement which was then in progress. Statements issued from time to time have made it clear that, owing both to economies in operation and improvement in sales, the company has done very well lately, and its turnover for the year just ended is estimated at $6,000,000. Another statement is to the effect that the company earned last year approximately 5½ times its bond interest. But despite all this, the accuracy of which it is impossible to gauge pending the issue of the official report, it is currently reported that payment of the preferred dividend will not be resumed at present, though, obviously, shareholders are justified in regarding a resumption as a not very distant prospect. Doubtless some definite allusion to this matter will be made when the report for the year just concluded is issued.

The annual report of the Sawyer-Massey Co. for the year ended November 30, 1916, has just been issued, and though it shows a reduction of $549,855 in current liabilities and an increase in reserves, it cannot otherwise be regarded as an encouraging document. The improvements above noted evidently accrued from the collection of outstanding accounts, for so severely did the company feel the shortage of labour and the difficulty of obtaining raw materials that it was unable to produce the amount of machinery which could have been sold, and its sales were little over half what they otherwise would have been. Thus, despite the company's munition operations, net profits for the year were only $72,208, a sensible disappointment, as in 1915, with profits of $116,606, the company really seemed to have recovered strongly from the misfortunes of 1914, when a deficit of $206,802 was shown. Profits for last year were only $21,827 in excess of what was required for the service of the bonds. This, with the balance from the previous year, made a total of $128,023, but as an appropriation of $289,634 was found necessary for re-valuation of bills receivable and other liquid assets, the company carries forward into the current year a balance of $161,611 at debit of profit and loss account.

The net profits shown by the company each year since its reorganisation in 1909 have been as follows:—1910, $184,720; 1911, $229,506; 1912, $242,860; 1913, $173,917; 1914 (deficit), $206,802; 1915, $116,606. Doubtless the appropriation is in respect of bills relating to sales made not only during 1916, but for several years past, and from its amount it seems probable that the company has entirely cleared its situation in this regard. But judging from its annual profit record the company will, in 1917, have to equal one of its very best years if it is to do much more than provide for the service of its bonds and eliminate the deficit carried into the year. As labour and raw materials difficulties are not likely to be less in 1917 than last year, it is hard to descry any probability of such an improvement taking place and, unless the directors can find some way of surmounting these difficulties, it seems that any prospect of a resumption of payment of preferred dividends must be deferred until normal conditions recur.

Stock Exchange Settling Days :—

CONSOLS

Friday, June 1.

GENERAL EARLY OVER.

Continuation Day.	Ticket Day.	Pay Day.
Mon. May 28.	Tues. May 29.	Wed. May 30.

Business on the Stock Exchange during the week has been on a strictly moderate scale, but the undertone has been fairly cheerful.

Canadian securities have ruled irregular, with firmness in places. Among the gilt-edged issues the old Fours have further risen ½ to 80, while the 4½ per Cents. have maintained their previous level.

In the Railroad group Canadian Pacifics have kept firm around 174½, but they have displayed little activity, and Grand Trunks have displayed a drooping tendency from lack of support. Quotations marked several falls of ¼ to ½, and the Guaranteed Fours have fallen about a point. Canadian Northern issues have not varied.

In the Land group Hudson's Bays have eased slightly to 6½ after some narrow fluctuation. Southern Albertas and Western Canadas have marked time. We refer to the Alberta, Southern Alberta, Canadian Wheatlands amalgamation scheme on another page.

As regards industrials, there has been no sustained activity. Canadian Cars have not varied on the week. Dominion Steels have been good, rising 2 to 62, but Steel of Canada has merely preserved previous levels.

There has been support for Brazilian Tractions, which have been good with other Brazilian securities, helped by the higher level of the Brazilian exchange. The shares are about a point up at 47½. Mexican traction descriptions have held firm. Canadian Mining Corporations have been supported on the good quarterly dividends forecast.

OUR TORONTO LETTER.

TORONTO, May 3.

There has been some demand for Steamships, the Preferred and Common both showing slight advances. This is probably due to the growing belief that the company will soon wipe off all arrears of its Preferred dividends either by one declaration or by means of three quarterly payments. The arrears only amount to 5½ per cent., and you will remember that the company made a payment of 7 per cent. early this year.

Apart from this the Stock markets both in Montreal and Toronto have been even less active than hitherto. The steel stocks have tended lower on small trading, and the paper stocks have been practically neglected with the exception of Wayagamack, which has recovered a little from its recent decline. In Montreal there has been some small buying of some of the investment stocks such as Civic Power, Ogilvie, Shawinigan, and Textile. The new War Loan is selling around 95½. A good deal of discussion still centres around the new surtaxes on profits. One of the interesting current suggestions is that one effect of the tax may be to check the growing tendency of industrial companies to use some part of the large profits which they have been earning to retire their fixed obligations such as bonds and notes. It is pointed out that companies are not likely to continue strengthening their position in the manner, as the practice by decreasing fixed charges, will have the effect of increasing their taxable surpluses.

Mr. W. G. Ross, of Montreal, and Mr. G. Beardmore, of Toronto, have been elected directors of the Canadian General Electric Company.

The annual meeting of the A. Macdonald Co. was held in Winnipeg yesterday. All the old directors of the company were re-elected. Nothing was done in regard to the proposal to reduce the common stock, and a suggestion for the reorganisation of the Preferred stock was not adopted. No dividend was declared on the Preferred stock.

Among current prices Scotia is 94½, Dominion Steel Corporation 60¼, Steel of Canada 59½, Cement 60, Canadian Car Common 28½, Preferred 70, Civic Power 79½, Canadian General Electric 108½, Steamships Common 39½, Preferred 87½, Ogilvie 145, Textile 83, Shawinigan 122, Wayagamack 74, Russell Preferred 102, Quebec Railway 28¼. Among inactive stocks Dominion Bridge is quoted at 135–125 ex-dividend, Toronto Railway 83 .50, Winnipeg Railway 50, Ames-Holden Common 19–15, and 60 is asked for the Preferred.

Directors of Hollinger, on their return from a recent visit to the property, report that the repressive influence of the Ontario Provincial police upon alien labour disturbers is leading to an improvement in the labour situation. The mill enlargements are expected to be completed early this summer.

The Mining shares, however, with one or two exceptions, have been weak. Hollinger is $5.05, Dome Mines $15.50, McIntyre $1.71, Newray $1.49, Boston Creek .86, West Dome Consolidated 23. Among the silver stocks Temiskaming is .41½, McKinley .53, La Rose .47, Kennabeek .28½, Hargraves .16½, Peterson Lake 9½.

COMPANY MEETING.

THE LAND CORPORATION OF CANADA, LIMITED.

The thirty-fifth ordinary general meeting of the Land Corporation of Canada was held at 62 London Wall, London, E.C., on Thursday, May 17, Mr. J. B. Dennant, the President, in the chair.

The Chairman said in the course of his remarks: "I spoke to you last year about our securities and the difficulty of putting a value upon them, but you may rely upon it that there is no depreciation which will not be made good, and more than good, in normal times. We were repaid part of the money we had lent on mortgage in Winnipeg, and we thought this money should be invested in War Loan, which we consequently did. The crop last year was a disappointing one in quantity, but the quality was good, and the prices ruled high, so farmers did very well. There is still quite a considerable amount of wheat in Canada and available for export to other countries if only there was tonnage to bring it over. Both Canada and the United States are building ships as fast as possible, but, of course, very few can be ready in the near future.

"We have lately been selling land—only a small quantity, it is true—at from £4 to £5 an acre, and as it stands in our books at about 10s., there is a good profit. We are also selling town lots at Craven. I mention these facts to show you that the demand has now begun to show itself, and I quite hope that we shall do more selling before our books close at the end of the year. Personally, I have every confidence in the future, and if only our holding in British Columbia realises anything like what we expect we shall again be in a position to resume our old dividends without drawing upon our carry forward. It was always understood that our large carry forward should be drawn upon for this purpose; in fact, this was what it was created for. General trade in Canada is very good indeed, and collections are better even than last year. Our profit and loss account would have been much better if it had not been for the two items of taxes on lands and income tax. These account between them for an increase of nearly £700."

The report was adopted, and a dividend of 1s. per share, less income tax, at the rate of 5 per cent., declared.

The Chairman said they were going to do their best to pull the company into its old position, when it paid dividends of 15 and 20 per cent.

Ontario after the War—TIMBER.

Ontario has 202,000 square miles of forests, which yield timber to the value of $26,775,000 per annum.

After the war, vast quantities of timber will be required for rebuilding purposes in the ravaged cities, towns and villages of Europe.

Ontario, with its vast forests of pine, birch, maple, beech, and other valuable hardwoods, can, with the aid of British capital, supply the timber demand of the world.

There is also a great future in store for the wood pulp and paper industry. Huge plant already exists, but new factories are needed to cope with the inevitable demand for paper that will arise immediately after the war.

NOTES ON INVESTMENTS.

United States and the Exchange Problem.

The developments in connection with the proposals for converting into dollar currency a large amount of U.K.P.R. sterling securities have justified Canada's expectations as to the effect of the entry into the war of the United States. To many people the publication recently of a fourth list of requisitioned securities in view of this event caused surprise in many quarters, but it was really an equitable measure, and no doubt designed to prevent any feeling of irritation on the part of those holders whose securities had previously been requisitioned. That the change in our financial relations with the United States brought about by the advent of the Republic as a belligerent will produce relief in the exchange position between the old and the new worlds is undoubted. Already we see a welcome recovery in the credit of the Empire as reflected by the terms on which the Mother Country is able to raise money, and given no untoward events in the field or on the sea, there is every prospect of this recovery making further progress. Whether, as a result of the financial assistance rendered by the United States, the Treasury will make any immediate change in the "D" scheme under which securities are deposited, is the secret of Mr. Bonar Law and his advisers, but in the circumstances it is obvious that so soon as the Treasury can see its way to drop a scheme which is costing the country ½ per cent. on the large total of securities now held, it will do so, especially as we can raise such large sums in the United States on exceptionally cheap terms.

Canadian Land Amalgamation Scheme.

A year or so ago what was known as the Grenfell group of land companies were practically unsaleable, and the outlook was reported as so obscure that no one cared to suggest that there might be a future for them under stronger auspices and with the infusion of new capital. Dealing with the three companies in question — the Southern Alberta, the Canadian Wheatlands and the Western Land Co.s—we suggested that as a £10 note would acquire about 200 shares, equally divided in the three companies, it was quite a decent little gamble. Those who acted on our advice have now seen the fruition of their hopes in the amalgamation scheme propounded to consolidate under one control the Alberta, the Southern Alberta and the Canadian Wheatlands Companies. The former concern was not, of course, included in our recommendation, whilst the third—the Western Canada—is left out of the present scheme. We advise holders of the three companies to join the amalgamation scheme. It is under excellent auspices, and with the new capital which is to be introduced under the terms of the amalgamation, the Canada Land Corporation should prove the success its well-wishers prophesy for it. We understand that the conditions under which the Southern Alberta and the Canadian Wheatlands Companies are to come into the scheme will be made public at the end of the month. Treasury sanction has been obtained, and although it is stipulated that only 1s. per share of the 4s. liability attaching to the partly paid shares of the new corporation is to be called up during the year, it is estimated that this will be sufficient for the company's purposes, and doubtless with the strong backing the new company possesses all the funds required for completing the irrigation works incidental to the new programme will be forthcoming. It is stated that the financial details in connection with the scheme have been already arranged and underwriting arrangements completed. Canada, which was able to forecast such a reorganisation scheme, when two of the amalgamating companies were absolutely on the rocks, is especially gratified to record the present promising developments and to congratulate those who acted on its advice on the very substantial reward which has already accrued to them in the large percentage increase in the value of the capital embarked in this little gamble.

Agricultural Labour Prospects.

In view of the submarine menace, all eyes in the Mother Country and in the Allied countries, apart from Russia, are anxiously following agricultural developments in Canada and the United States. In connection with the Dominion, the latest commercial letter of the Canadian Bank of Commerce—that for April—points out that although some time ago it seemed probable that there would be this year a severe shortage of labour in the Western Provinces, owing to the united efforts of the Federal and Provincial Governments, the National Service Commission and the Railways, "it now looks as though the supply of labour might be more satisfactory than in 1916." It is stated that the farmers are now complaining not so much of the supply of labour as of its cost. In the Eastern Provinces, and especially Ontario, the danger of labour shortage is greater owing to the demands in connection with the manufacture of munitions, and those responsible for the production of the latter are likely to be embarrassed in turn by the return of workers who have been employed in the factories all the winter to the farms, the fruit gardens and orchards for the summer. It is satisfactory to learn that in the Western Provinces the farmers are raising more cattle than at any previous time, and that there is a marked tendency to develop this industry, the co-operation of the Alberta Government in this connection promising excellent results. One effect of the war, the high prices at present obtaining for wool is causing increasing interest to be shown in sheep raising, and the Breeders' Associations are now systematically attempting to solve the difficult problems of this industry, in which work they are receiving the hearty co-operation of the Provincial Governments.

OBITUARY.

The Hon. G. T. Baird, a member of the Senate since 1895, who sat in the New Brunswick Legislature 1884-1892, has died at Andover, N.B., aged 73. He was well known in the lumber business, and was managing director of the G. T. Baird Co., Ltd.

Mr. Robert L. Patterson, Canadian representative of Miller & Richard, died at Toronto on April 21, aged 71.

Mr. George A. Watson, broker, of Catherwood & Watson, was killed in an auto accident near Mission, B.C., on April 24.

Lieut. Hal Brown, of Ottawa, accidentally shot himself at Montreal, according to a Canadian Daily Record cablegram.

Mr. T. R. Job, of Job Bros., merchants and shipowners, Liverpool, who died last Saturday, was born at St. John's, Newfoundland, in 1837.

Mrs. W. D. Matthews, wife of the Vice-President of the Dominion Bank, died at Toronto last week.

The deaths are reported of the following members of the staff of the Royal Bank of Canada:—Pte. P. J. Destrube, Royal Fusiliers (Edmonton), Pte. J. H. Steele, P.P.C.L.I. (Saskatoon), and Cpl. G. W. Addison (Toronto).

Lady Allan, Sir George Perley, Mr. Hugh A. Allan, and other Canadians are supporters of the King Albert's Civilian Hospital Fund, 169, Piccadilly, W., organised by Mrs. Oliphant Murray, who makes an urgent appeal for clothing, which will be sent to the Poperinghe and other hospitals and charitable associations in Belgium. Nearly 20,000 items of clothing, linen and other supplies have already been sent, and proved a great boon. The hon. president is her Excellency Madame Helleputte.

The fullest particulars of special investment opportunities in Canada mentioned from time to time in the column headed "Investment Notes and Opportunities" are supplied on request to readers who are annual subscribers.

FINANCIAL AND REAL ESTATE.

TAX.—The tax to which you allude is as follows:—Every purchaser in Canada of a railway ticket to any point in or outside of Canada, or of a steamboat ticket between ports in Canada, Newfoundland, the West Indian Colonies or the United States, has to pay, in addition to the original cost of the ticket, 5 cents if the ticket costs over $1 and less than $5, and 5 cents for every additional $5 or fraction of $5. Thus on railway tickets costing, say, from $11 to $15 each the tax would be 15 cents, say 7½d. each.

R. F. K. (Glasgow).—Probably the excess profits tax, which takes from companies having a capitalisation of $50,000 or over, a proportion of all profits earned over and above 7 per cent. on capital, would affect proportionately more severely the securities of those companies which, with comparatively small capital, have been earning a very high percentage of profit. We cannot undertake to compute the amount of the tax which will be payable by any particular company, but may suggest that a basis for a very rough estimate might be found in the figures of the financial statement of last year adjusted in proportion to the increased rate of taxation.

X. Y. Z. (City).—The preferred dividends in the case of each of these companies are accumulating heavily in arrears. By midsummer this year the arrears in each case, should no dividend be previously paid, will amount to 21 per cent., representing approximately, in the case of No. 1, a sum of $315,000; in that of No. 2 $1,357,650, and in that of No. 8 $525,000. It is difficult to avoid the conclusion that the Common shareholders have but little to look forward to for several years at least. But it must also be remembered that, unlike the numerous companies which have found great profit in their war business, these companies have nothing to fear from the termination of the war, but, on the other hand, have everything to gain from a return to normal conditions.

GENERAL.

A. J. M. (N.W.1).—No such rank as King's corporal or King's sergeant is recognised in the King's Regulations; therefore your second query does not apply.

TRADE.—Canada's total trade during the fiscal year ended March 31 last amounted to $2,249,170,171, of which $225,000,000 was in coin and bullion, as compared with $1,424,916,665, of which $140,000,000 was in coin and bullion in 1915-16. The exports for the year 1916-17 aggregated $1,151,375,768, as against $741,610,653. Imports grew from $507,785,361 in 1915-16 to $845,330,903.

ENQUIRY COUPON.

"CANADA," No. 594. May 26, 1917.

This coupon must be cut out and enclosed with all letters of enquiry, except those from annual subscribers.

COMPANY MEETING.

THE BRITISH BANK OF NORTHERN COMMERCE, LTD.

The fifth annual meeting of the above bank was held on Wednesday, May 23, at 41, Bishopsgate, London, E.C., Mr. H. Bendixson presiding.

The Chairman, after referring to the regrettable absence of Earl Grey, owing to ill-health, said:—

"Our home business shows a good increase, and our foreign business has developed rapidly, undoubtedly the result of the confidence here and abroad in our institution and its usefulness. This growth especially reflects the recent prosperity of the Scandinavian countries, which other neutral states have also experienced.

"Taking our liabilities first. The paid-up capital of the bank remains at £375,000, but our reserve has been increased from £375,000 to £750,000 by the calling up of the remaining £2 10s. of the premium of £5, at which our shares were originally subscribed. When announcing to you a year ago our intention of so doing we expressed confidence that our earning capacity would justify us in thus increasing the amount of our own funds, and we have not been disappointed. Current deposit and other accounts show the handsome total of £9,408,026, against £4,322,943 last year, and £1,038,880 two years ago—surely one of the best proofs of our increasing business. We do not forget that the state of the foreign exchanges, to which we referred a year ago, is a very special inducement to our Scandinavian clients to keep money on this side; but even when exchanges right themselves, and part of these balances may be withdrawn, we do not think we are over-confident in expecting continued prosperity with the free renewal of international trade. The last amount on this side comprises, bills rediscounted £248,177, which calls for no comment; guarantees, £797,344, supported not only by shipowners or traders, but also in every case by Scandinavian banks, and our acceptances £196,616, as against £574,069 last year. As formerly, these acceptances are entirely against shipments of goods. I do not think it is necessary to comment on this temporary reduction, as same is the natural result of restricted trade.

"We now turn to the assets side of the accounts. Our liquid cash, including £825,000 money at call, amounts to £2,230,148, against £1,489,518 last year. Our investments at £482,277 compare with £269,148 last year, and have been valued at or below prices current on March 31. They are mainly represented by British Government securities. Loans, advances and other accounts are £1,057,368 against £624,979 last year. British Government Treasury Bills and Bills of Exchange, £6,830,164, represents the contents of our portfolio on March 31, and is made up of £3,870,000 Treasury Bills and £2,960,164 first-class Bank and Trade Bills. The remaining items on this side are contras.

"Turning now to the profit and loss account, our net profit amounts to £74,170, which is arrived at after payment of all expenses, making provision for rebate on bills discounted and bad and doubtful debts, and writing down our investments as already mentioned. Adding £15,264 brought forward from last year, we have an available total of £89,434.

"In October last we declared and paid an interim dividend of 6 per cent., free of income tax, absorbing £22,500, and we now recommend the payment of a final dividend of 12 per cent., also free of tax, making in all 18 per cent. for the year. This distribution will leave £21,934 to be carried forward, against £15,264 brought in. We are sure you will agree with us in considering this result satisfactory, more especially as we have only had the use of the balance of premium, £375,000, for nine months of our financial year."

The report was adopted, and the declaration of dividend, as recommended, approved.

THE RAILWAY SITUATION.

Grand Trunk Directors' Attitude.

The directors of the Grand Trunk Railway Company, at a special meeting held at Montreal last week, decided to oppose the nationalisation of the Grand Trunk system, but expressed their willingness (says a Canadian Daily Record cablegram) to let the Dominion Government take over the Grand Trunk Pacific, providing they are reimbursed for the outlay the company has made upon that line.

A New Suggestion.

The amalgamation of all the lines except the Canadian Pacific as a Government system, which was recommended by the majority report of the investigating Commission, may be too large an undertaking under existing financial conditions (says the Montreal correspondent of the Morning Post). A new suggestion which is made here, and which is believed to reflect the opinion of important business interests, is that the Government should take over the Grand Trunk Pacific, thus establishing a State transcontinental line, while an arrangement is made with the Canadian Pacific for the operation of the Canadian Northern on the basis of relieving the Provinces of the obligation in connection with their guarantees.

Shawinigan Water and Power.—March earnings, $192,000; being at the rate of $2,304,000 per annum.

British Columbia Canning.—A dividend has been declared of 2½ per cent. (4½d. per share) on the Ordinary shares (interim), payable June 1.

Belding Paul and Corticelli Silk.—A dividend of 3½ per cent. on the Preference shares is announced, thus reducing the outstanding arrears to 17½ per cent.

Real Estate Loan of Canada.—The accounts for 1916 show a total income of $100,113, as compared with $100,541, and after paying two dividends of 3½ per cent. each, the same as for each of the three preceding years, and transferring sums of $10,000 each to rest and contingent funds, the credit balance of $5,207 brought forward was increased to $5,375.

GRAND TRUNK DINING CARS.

The Marquis of Queensberry, who has just completed a tour of Canada and Alaska, has written a letter of congratulation to the Grand Trunk and Grand Trunk Pacific Railways upon the excellence of their dining-car service. "Everywhere one meets with the kindest courtesy and attention and the food is excellent," writes the distinguished visitor. The Marquis was greatly impressed with the efficiency of the staffs on the dining-cars. The manner in which they were operated did much, he stated, to make the journey across Canada an enjoyable one.

LIEUT.-COL. CLEMENT H. GURNEY, D.S.O., E. YORKS REGT.
who was invested at Buckingham Palace on Wednesday, was, before joining the Army, a well-known solicitor in the City. He is a very active member of Canada Lodge, and is the present I.P.M.

Calgary and Edmonton Land.—The report for 1916 shows a profit on the year's operations of £3,607, as compared with a loss of £2,581 for 1915. In their annual report Messrs. Osler, Hammond & Nanton write as follows:—"During the year the company has paid farm land taxes amounting to $18,593, as against $19,229 in 1915. There has been practically no change in the rate of taxation against unimproved farm lands during 1916. The demand for farm lands in Alberta from the sales has been very good during the past year; in fact, this is the best year the company has had, as far as farm lands are concerned, since 1910. All the lands purchased this year have been sold to adjoining farmers, and we therefore think that they will complete their obligations and pay up their agreements promptly."
